

AMERICANS AND RUSSIANS DRIVE ON BERLIN

The War Today..

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

V-E DAY is still on the wing and the signs are that it's going to take some gunning to bring it down.

The overall picture in Europe is that of a Germany virtually halved, but with two great areas of Nazi resistance developing for a last stand. One of these will be along the northern coast, stretching into Denmark, and the forces defending Berlin will figure on retreating towards the sea when the Allied pressure against the capital becomes too strong. The other will be centered in Hitler's Alpine fortress about Berchtesgaden.

The Hitlerite leaders give every indication of determination to fight just as long as there are soldiers left willing to battle—and die.

I was in Washington during the past fateful weekend of national emotion, and came away with a conviction I should like to record here. It is that all elements of government are standing outside politics as solidly as the rock of Gibraltar in their determination to carry our global war through to unconditional surrender and to establish a just and enduring peace.

It is what you and I would expect, but there are those among our enemies who will try to glean hope for an easier peace for the enemies as the result of our loss. They should know that America marches on to the fulfillment of her objectives.

One notes with satisfaction that Japan's new premier, Adm. Baron Suzuki, sees the writing on the wall. Domel, the official Japanese news agency, quotes him as admitting he "does not expect America's war efforts against Japan to change because of Mr. Roosevelt's death."

The capture of Franz Von Papen, Hitler's right-hand man in diplomatic devilry by American troops is one of the war's great coups. Von Papen is among the dozen most dangerous men in the world.

This arrogant Prussian aristocrat is the essence of the militarism which the Allies have sworn to wipe out in Europe. He is one of the shrewdest schemers of our time and has been responsible for many of Hitler's most profitable ventures. He moves by razor-edge craft where he can, but is utterly without conscience or principle, and through a lifetime of plotting has resorted often to violence to achieve his end.

Many of you will remember that back in the last war, before the United States came in, he was German military attaché in Washington and under protection of this position directed a campaign of sabotage throughout the country. The Kaiser recalled him on our demand.

It was this one-time German chancellor who placed the Nazi rope about Austria's neck, and he did much other invaluable bargaining for the head gangster, but of one thing he may be sure—he always was looking for a chance to double-cross his master, who came close to including Von Papen in the Nazi blood purge of 1934. If Von Papen isn't high on the list of war criminals, he should be.

Strategy Of War To Remain Unchanged, Truman Declares

FDR IS BURIED AT HYDE PARK

President Is Laid To Rest In Garden Of His Family Home

By HOWARD FLIEGER

ROOSEVELT ESTATE, Hyde Park, April 16.—Franklin Delano Roosevelt, world traveler in search of lasting peace, slept today in the spot he loved above all others—the garden of his family home in the peaceful Hudson valley.

In burial rites majestic in their simplicity, the four-term chief executive was laid to rest Sunday behind the hemlock hedge which borders the century old garden.

His modestly-mannered successor, President Truman, joined other high government dignitaries in the ceremony—then sped back to Washington to shoulder the crushing task which fell his lot Thursday when a cerebral hemorrhage killed President Roosevelt.

With President Truman went Mrs. Roosevelt, back to the White House to terminate the first-family house-keeping she began March 4, 1933.

Simple neighbors of Hyde Park mingled with cabinet officers, Supreme court justices, congressional and military leaders and foreign executives to pay final homage to the man who gave up the country's life he wanted to lead a nation through its greatest conflict.

Among the funeral guests were Prime Minister MacKenzie King of Canada—who placed his own floral offering at the graveside—and Alfred Clay, son of a farmer on the Roosevelt estate and boyhood playmate of the late President.

The Presidential train—in a funeral role for the first time since the death of Warren G. Harding—rolled into the Roosevelt estate for the last time at 8:47 a. m. Sunday morning. A warm spring sun reflected off the waters of the Hudson river.

The booming thunder of a 21-gun presidential salute started the burial services a few minutes before 10.

PHILLIPS TO SEEK MAYORALTY AGAIN, JOHNSON WILL RUN

A contest between Mayor R. R. Johnson and former Mayor Norman Phillips at the municipal election next November loomed today as Phillips announced his candidacy for Democratic mayoralty nomination at the primaries July 31.

Mayor Johnson previously had let it be known that he would run for re-election on the Republican ticket.

Neither candidate for head of the ticket is expected to have opposition at the party primary vote.

Phillips previously served two terms as mayor. Johnson is completing his second consecutive term as Republican mayor.

Liverpool, Steubenville Bus Strike Is Threatened

EAST LIVERPOOL, April 16.—Presidents of the East Liverpool and Steubenville locals of the AFL-Affiliated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees Union today informed the management of the Valley Motor Transit Co. that bus drivers would walk out if the company did not comply with a War Labor board directive by April 30.

A telegram, signed by E. L. Bemis, president of the East Liverpool local, and Charles Pearce, president of the Steubenville local, asserted the company had shown no inclination to comply with the WLB directive ordering time and one-half pay for drivers after 44 hours.

Perry McCaskey Dead

CLEVELAND, April 16.—Perry A. McCaskey, 77, inventor of the McCaskey cash register, died here Saturday.

McCaskey previously served two terms as mayor. Johnson is completing his second consecutive term as Republican mayor.

Neither candidate for head of the ticket is expected to have opposition at the party primary vote.

Phillips previously served two terms as mayor. Johnson is completing his second consecutive term as Republican mayor.

City Grieves FDR Death At Service

"Never before has the death of one man produced such profound sorrow in the hearts of so many people as did the death of our President, Franklin Delano Roosevelt. As head of a great nation which stands for freedom, democracy and idealism he had become to the oppressed and war-ridden peoples of earth the symbol of hope."

Rev. Robert E. Mosher, pastor of the First Friends church, and president of the Salem Ministerial association, told his audience at the community Memorial service for the President last night in the Methodist church.

Hundreds of people gathered for this event which was sponsored by the Ministerial association.

"This is the seventh time that the United States has mourned the death of a president during the term of his office," Rev. Mosher said. "We turn back the pages of history 80 years to find a parallel to the situation in which we find ourselves. It was exactly 80 years ago today that the shocking news was sent out over the land that President Delano was dead. A few days before that tragic day of April 15, 1865, the nation was jubilant over the prospect that the end of the Civil war was in sight."

"Regardless of party affiliation, he was our President, and we deeply grieve over the falling of the captain of our ship."

Rev. Mosher pointed out three elements of greatness in his character. "This was a man of courage as a sufferer. His courage in overcoming the death of a president during the term of his office."

PFC. DEBNAR AMONG FDR HONOR GUARD

Pfc. Albert Debnar, son of Mrs. A. Debnar, 1135 Maple st., was selected as a member of the honor guard which escorted the late President Roosevelt's body from Warm Springs, Ga., to Washington, D. C., where the funeral was held Saturday.

In a letter written soon after the President's death Friday, Pfc. Debnar told his mother that he had been chosen as a member of the honor guard, but stated that his assignment had not been completely revealed as yet. He thought they would accompany the body from Warm Springs.

Pfc. Debnar has been stationed at Fort Benning, Ga., for the past year as a member of the infantry school training troops. He was a draftsman at the Gonda Engineering Co. plant before his induction.

Assures World U. S. Won't Falter In Drive For Victory and Peace

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 16.—President Truman promised today that the grand strategy of the war will remain "unchanged and unhampered" by his accession to the presidency.

Making his first address to a joint session of Congress, the new President declared this nation, along with its Allies, must shoulder the "grave responsibility" of making secure future peace.

To accomplish this, Mr. Truman said, the United States must join in punishing those guilty for bringing on the war.

"Lasting peace can never be secured if we permit our dangerous opponents to plot future wars with impunity at any mountain retreat—however distant," the President said, in apparent allusion to reports that Hitler may attempt to seek a refuge in the Bavarian mountains of Germany.

Pays Roosevelt Tribute

Speaking only one day after the burial of Franklin D. Roosevelt, President Truman paid high tribute to his predecessor.

"Tragic fate has thrust upon us grave responsibilities," he said. "We must carry on."

"Our devoted leader never looked backward. He looked forward and moved forward. That is what he would want us to do."

Mr. Truman went to the Capitol after two early morning conferences on international affairs. The first was with Secretary of State Stettinius; the second with Stettinius, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, and Lord Halifax, the British ambassador.

Long before the President arrived at the Capitol, police and secret servicemen placed a careful guard about the building.

Only holders of special cards of admission were allowed in the house gallery where the joint session was held.

Speaking from the rostrum where he had heard President Roosevelt on March 1 describe the accomplishments of the Yalta conference, Mr. Truman said that American policy remains "unconditional surrender."

Declaring the nation is "deeply conscious" that much hard fighting remains, the President said: "Having to pay such a heavy price to make complete victory certain, America will never become a party to any plan for partial victory. We will not traffic with the breakers of the peace on the terms of the peace."

Courage for Future

Noting that within an hour after he took office last Thursday he had announced that the San Francisco United Nations conference would proceed on schedule, Mr. Truman said:

Wipe Out Enemy At Berlin's Gates, Hitler Orders Troops

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, April 16.—Adolf Hitler in an order of the day to German soldiers on the Eastern front declared tonight:

"For the last time the Jewish-Bolshevik arch enemy has launched his maddened attack. He is trying to destroy Germany and to wipe out our people."

"Soldiers in the east, you yourselves know that fate threatens, particularly the German women, girls and children," Hitler asserted. "While old men and children are being murdered women and girls are being reduced to the status of prostitutes. The remainder led away to Siberia."

"We have expected this offensive and since January of this year everything has been done in order to build up a strong front. A tremendous artillery concentration is meeting the enemy," Hitler continued.

"This time the Bolsheviks will suffer the old fate of Asia—they must and will perish in front of the German capital."

"Whoever at this moment does not fulfill his duty is a traitor to our nation."

Retreat Means Death

Hitler's order asserted any unit which left its fighting position "must be shamed by our women and children who in our towns are standing up to the bomb terror."

Then he warned the soldiers to watch "particularly the few traitorous officers and soldiers who, in order to secure their miserable lives, will fight against us in Russian pay, perhaps even in Russian uniform."

"Anyone who orders you to retreat and is unknown to you must be arrested immediately and if necessary disposed of, whatever his rank."

"Berlin remains German," he declared. "Vienna will again become German. Europe will never become Russian."

He concluded with an appeal to "draw the Bolshevik assault in a blood bath."

"At this moment when fate has eliminated the greatest war criminal of all times," the turn of the tide will come," he said.

Henry C. Wolfe, noted war correspondent and one of the platform's most popular speakers, comes to Salem for the season's final Town Hall meeting at 8 p. m. Thursday in the High school auditorium.

He has been decorated by six nations for his interpretation of international affairs. He has not only interpreted history in the making, but anticipated some of its sensational events.

Far in advance Wolfe predicted the Nazi-Soviet pact, the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor and the role of the Philippines in defeating Japan.

He arrived in Paris six hours before the German garrison surrendered and was on hand for the Nazi capitulation, the attack on Gen. de Gaulle's victory parade, and the spectacular liberation celebration.

Wolfe has been traveling back and forth to Paris and Germany for 27 years to obtain personal surveys of the global scene. He will bring from the battlefields overseas a personalized close-up of the march of Allied victory.

Heights Near Berlin Falls To Red Army

(BULLETIN)

LONDON, April 16.—Trans-ocean news agency announced tonight that the Russians had captured the Seelow heights, 23 miles east of Berlin, and linked up their bridgeheads southwest and northwest of Kuestrin.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, April 16.—The German high command announced today the Russians had launched their long awaited large-scale offensive from the east side of the German waist at Berlin.

The high command declared the big Soviet steamroller swung into action along a 60-mile front from the mouth of the Neisse southeast of Berlin to the Oderbruch, a plain on the west bank of the Oder northeast of Berlin.

"Bitter fighting is in progress on the entire front," Berlin said.

German broadcasts indicated the Russian assault was being mounted on an even broader front, and reported that a new bridgehead across the Oder had been forged in the first hours of the offensive in the Schwedt area, 30 miles south of Stettin and 44 miles northeast of Berlin.

Schwedt is 105 miles from Seelhausen, where American forces stand on the Elbe.

Russian and American forces were even closer to a junction north of Berlin, German broadcasts indicated. The Russians were reported attacking close to Wriezen, 24 miles northeast of Berlin and 91 miles from the American Ninth army on the Elbe at Tangermunde.

A heavy artillery barrage paved the way for the assault, launched on a front more than 25 miles long extending from north of Kuestrin to south of Frankfurt-on-the-Oder the broadcast declared.

Canadians and Poles reached the North Sea within five miles of Emden, pocketing perhaps 200,000 Germans. The First and Ninth army formed another trap in the Harz mountains of 350 square miles.

Third army troops were 75 miles or so from Russian lines southeast of Berlin and the enemy said a junction was imminent.

Germanys was all but split in two by Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third army which captured Hof (pop. 43,600), a road center eight miles from the Czech border and 75 miles from the Skoda munitions works in Pilsen.

Further south, the American Seventh army beat to within eight miles of the Nazi citadel of Neumunster (43,600) and the French advanced on the upper Rhine plain and into the Black forest.

Field Marshal Ernest Busch was placed in charge of the northern front guarding Berlin. Field Marshal Albert Kesselring probably was given command of the southern front.

Vital Cities Taken

The Poles and Canadians formed a new pocket in the north by plunging to the shores of the North sea and within five miles of the naval base

A New President

Tragic circumstances have thrust heavy responsibility on President Truman. His ability to bear the burden will be determined in a very large part by the attitude of the people and Congress.

Mr. Truman's modesty has been his outstanding characteristic. In the Senate, he did his work efficiently, but not conspicuously. Had he not been named chairman of the special committee to investigate the national defense program, he would have remained one of the least known senators.

The name he made for himself in that position became his only evident qualification for the vice presidential nomination of his party. He was not a popular choice, as was known at the time; he represented a compromise between Henry A. Wallace, who wanted the nomination as a spokesman for the party's radical wing, and James P. Byrnes, who was being strongly backed by the conservative wing.

What was done last summer as a piece of political strategy now becomes a major element in the probable conduct of the government. President Truman, within his party and now as chief executive, seems to stand for moderation. Franklin D. Roosevelt's position, by his own definition, was a "little to the left of center."

We cannot know now—the new President himself cannot know—what political patterns may come into being in the next few years. But it is certain that there will be many consequences of the absence of Mr. Roosevelt's unprecedented political power. It was that power, confirmed repeatedly at the polls, which had become the dominant factor in American politics. It was the basis of all misgivings about the safety of our representative democracy.

Fortunately, Mr. Roosevelt rarely exploited it to the limit. He used it to obtain what he wanted, but what he wanted was not an American version of dictatorship. Rather, he sought to promote aims which he had conceived himself or adopted as proper, including, of course, the aim to perpetuate his control of the Democratic party and the federal government. And, in an instance that was to become of prime historic importance, he used his political power to name as his successor in the event of his death in office a man of moderate views and modest ambition.

These circumstances of his elevation to the nation's highest office give President Truman a great opportunity. They give America a great opportunity. By historic chance, we have been provided the ingredients of government stabilized by elements of moderation. If the ingredients are compounded wisely—of our numerous minorities and blocs and pressure groups will see the great possibilities and believe in them resolutely—historic chance can be made into historic opportunity.

In the time that must still be consumed by the war and in the forthcoming days of reconversion to peacetime pursuits, the nation can find a balance between extremes. It will have the privilege of reviewing and revising policies which had been closed to review and revision through their association with Mr. Roosevelt's political prestige and commitments.

This does not mean there should be a violent reaction—and clearly President Truman would not wish any kind of violent reaction—but only that the potentialities for a gradual swing from extremism into moderation are implicit in his elevation to the presidency.

It is obvious that Mr. Truman, who has been well schooled in the techniques of party government, will not forget his great personal debt to the late President; that is at it should be. But it is equally obvious that as the new President he must build his position on as broad a base as possible. After the first excitement of the event which has elevated him to the White House has passed, he inevitably will think only of the future.

The immediate effect of international negotiations of Mr. Roosevelt's death are problematic. There need be no permanent effect, however. As the nation's spokesman, Mr. Roosevelt never could commit the nation to anything more or anything less than its opinion would support. While there undoubtedly will be difficulty in establishing a new atmosphere of personal confidence between our spokesman in future meetings and the spokesmen for other governments, the difficulty is not insuperable. All governments have been reminded by Mr. Roosevelt's death that their ultimate welfare cannot be assumed to lie wholly in one pair of mortal hands.

In his duties as commander-in-chief, as spokesman for the nation in foreign relations and as chief administrator of domestic affairs, President Truman will act with the confidence of his countrymen. This is the eventuality against which all safeguards for the orderly transfer of executive authority have been erected in Constitutional and statutory law. It is the ultimate test of the theory of executive power in the republic—that authority is not inherent in individuals, but only vested in them as holders of office.

The Work At Hand

President Truman's prompt decision to proceed with the schedule set up for the San Francisco conference is assurance that the work at hand will not be interrupted.

It is fortunate that Secretary of State Stettinius has had the privilege of participating in recent international negotiations. It is particularly fortunate that he commands personal confidence in both houses of Congress, particularly in the Senate, which must make the final decision on plans for peace and international security.

Former Secretary of State Hull is available for consultation. The farsighted move which placed Senator Vandenberg, Representative Eaton and Comdr. Staasen on the United States delegation to the United Nations meeting as spokesmen for the Republican party has been made more important by the necessity of unity. There is certain to be a dispersion of responsibility in the absence of the personal responsibility for foreign policy held by Mr. Roosevelt.

It may be assumed that Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin will understand this and adjust themselves to it. They have been reminded of the possibility that long before the work they have done is finished it, too, may pass into other hands. There is grave danger in any kind of international understanding which depends too heavily on personal relationship. When partisan leaders, with more zeal than wisdom, in the last presidential campaign, belittled the ability of Thomas E. Dewey to take the place of Mr. Roosevelt in conferences with Mr. Churchill and Mr. Stalin, they invited the fury of fate which now has substituted Mr. Truman. In due time, others will have to take the place of Mr. Stalin and Mr. Churchill, too.

Death is the only certainty of life. We forget that at our own peril. The work at hand may have to be finished by others. It is fortunate that Mr. Stettinius has had time to familiarize himself with the responsibility relinquished first by Mr. Hull in illness and now, unexpectedly, by Mr. Roosevelt in death. The precautions that were taken to guarantee it against interruption were wiser than anyone realized at the time.

President Truman is qualified to express and implement American aspirations and purposes in all matters of foreign policy. Secretary of State Stettinius has had the advantage of experience and acquaintanceship. Both have Congressional confidence in an unusual degree. The omen for success in future negotiations is good.

The Stars Say

For Tuesday, April 17

ALTHOUGH, according to the dominant planetary intervention, there may be difficulties, delays, tenacious obstacles, nevertheless there is fine prospect of getting around obstructions, rationalizing on dilemmas and hard problems, and by marshalling the forces for a fresh thrust on making sound and enduring progress and worthwhile gains. New policies, plans and programs, may yield in the face of innovation, novel methods and systems, managed with sane and reasonable tactics and persistent effort. But keep alert to pitfalls and subtle snares or intrigues, lest they undermine good work. As well, be not governed by emotional urges or impetuosity. Keep calm and firm.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year challenging their consolidated efforts, patient and persistent work against tenacious obstacles and delays or postponements. With reasonable analysis of difficulties and problems, sustained by fresh ideas, new ways and means with honorable policies and intent, there may be enduring benefits and profitable climax after test and trial.

But shun intriguing and suspicious affiliations, and keep clear of emotional or impetuous desires, as such might entail loss of funds as well as other prized possessions, in business as well as private affairs. Be prudent, calm and balanced in all situations.

A child born on this day will have many talents, energies and skills, sound and practical, which it will need to vanquish obstacles and treacheries.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Caffeine As Causative Factor In Stomach Ulcers

BY HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

MORE and more we hear of people who have ulcers, and although the exact cause of ulcer of the stomach and first part of the bowel is not known, it is possible to treat this disorder satisfactorily by the use of diet and, often, by the giving of alkaline substances, such as baking soda, of course always under the doctor's direction.

There are some authorities who believe that ulcers may arise because of infections.

Others think that perhaps some nervous disturbance is responsible. In any event, there are certain persons who seem prone to develop ulcers. These individuals are high-strung and nervous.

Experiment On Animals. Experiments have been carried out in the past which seem to show that caffeine is capable of producing ulcers in the stomachs of animals. Nevertheless, it has not been proven that it is a good thing to suppress altogether the use of beverages containing caffeine in the person who has ulcers.

Doctors James A. Roth and Andrew C. Ivy of the Northwestern Medical School have recently done further experiments with animals to determine the effects of caffeine on the stomach. They made a mixture containing caffeine in a solution of beeswax and mineral oil. The animals were given injections of this mixture into a vein daily. It was found that half of these animals developed bleeding ulcer in the stomach. In a number of the animals more than one ulcer formed. On examination of the stomach, it was found that a black-brown material was present which evidently contained blood, and there were numerous bleeding points in the lining membrane of the stomach around the ulcer. In some of the animals a reddish-brown fluid was found in the first part of the intestine.

It would appear from these studies that the excessive use of caffeine-containing beverages might thus play a role in the formation of ulcers of the stomach and of the bowel in human beings. It has also been noted that when caffeine-containing beverages are taken by mouth, the amount of secretions formed in the stomach increases.

For this reason, it is the opinion of these physicians that it may be a good plan to restrict the use of caffeine-containing beverages in persons who have ulcers or who may have a tendency to develop them. This does not mean, of course, that such beverages would cause ulcers in all persons. There are many who find these beverages quite satisfactory. Of course, the physician will decide in those instances in which caffeine-containing beverages should not be employed.

THE AMERICAN HOUSE

By Virginia Chase

OUR move was a terrible blow to my father. His pride had been cut in its sorest spot, and he was in mortal terror lest my mother's parents should somehow find out what had happened.

"Don't write your grandparents where we are living now," he told me, trying hard to act casual. "Let's keep it for a surprise." His shame was almost pitiful, and for once even Julia softened.

There must have been plenty of talk in town, but my mother held her head high. "We're going to spend our summer in the American House," she told her friends and neighbors. It was almost as though she was saying, "We are taking a trip to Boston." With us she was as pleasant and composed as ever. But there was a new set to her chin whenever the American House was mentioned.

She had found things worse, really, than she had expected. Provisions had been bought by wholesale, and both the cellar and the storeroom were stocked with perishables — meat, eggs, butter, barrels of crackers, a crate of oranges, and two whole bunches of bananas. The place was over-stuffed, too. There were two waitresses, a chef, a chambermaid, a clerk, and two men in the stable, all of whom had been sent on by the same agency that had recommended Jim McClure.

"What we need is native help," my mother said after one look at the kitchen. So she discharged those from the agency (all of whom had been resting well and eating heartily) and set out to find local people to take their places. The first fruit of her search was Mrs. Gupitill, a widow from a neighboring village.

Given only Mrs. Gupitill to reckon with, my father might have been well on his feet before the summer was over. Her industry was a thing to marvel at as she was up at 5 every morning and by 5:30 she had the fire going, the kettle boiling, the biscuits cut, the bacon and beefsteak brought in from the cellar, and the fish rolled in corn meal, ready for frying. By a quarter to 6 she was rattling the dumb-waiter, fuming at people who thought only of their bed and board. She herself lived an ascetic life. Her breakfast con-

Man With Insulated Home Wont Worry About Fuel

The smart householder will cherish and nourish every lump of coal and every gallon of fuel oil he has or can get.

Next winter may seem a long way off, but it may well be much colder in the house — than the winter just passing.

At best, the Solid Fuels Administration for War Hopes to have about 65 million tons of bituminous for heating apartments and houses that could use 80 million tons to keep warm, and 60 million tons of anthracite toward a demand for 70 million tons.

That's about 20 per cent less than was burned last winter and there is exactly nothing you can do about it except make every possible plan so you will not need as much fuel to keep warm.

R. B. Finley can help many by arranging to insulate their homes with genuine Johns-Manville "Blown" Rock Wool, which will save more than 20 per cent in most any home, some homes as much as 50 per cent and the savings will continue year after year and keep your home much cooler in summer as an extra dividend.

Most improvements made to any home actually become less valuable as each year passes but this is not true with well planned landscaping. A good landscape requires the planning by an experienced person, someone who actually knows the growing habits and other characteristics and the blending of size as time goes by, in fact many other technical conditions such as Joseph Cope of the Cope Bros. and Fultz Nursery on Depot road.

A visit to this old established nursery will soon convince you there is nothing to be desired they can not furnish.

Man With Insulated Home Wont Worry About Fuel

The smart householder will cherish and nourish every lump of coal and every gallon of fuel oil he has or can get.

Next winter may seem a long way off, but it may well be much colder in the house — than the winter just passing.

At best, the Solid Fuels Administration for War Hopes to have about 65 million tons of bituminous for heating apartments and houses that could use 80 million tons to keep warm, and 60 million tons of anthracite toward a demand for 70 million tons.

That's about 20 per cent less than was burned last winter and there is exactly nothing you can do about it except make every possible plan so you will not need as much fuel to keep warm.

R. B. Finley can help many by arranging to insulate their homes with genuine Johns-Manville "Blown" Rock Wool, which will save more than 20 per cent in most any home, some homes as much as 50 per cent and the savings will continue year after year and keep your home much cooler in summer as an extra dividend.

Most improvements made to any home actually become less valuable as each year passes but this is not true with well planned landscaping. A good landscape requires the planning by an experienced person, someone who actually knows the growing habits and other characteristics and the blending of size as time goes by, in fact many other technical conditions such as Joseph Cope of the Cope Bros. and Fultz Nursery on Depot road.

A visit to this old established nursery will soon convince you there is nothing to be desired they can not furnish.

Interior of Leetonia Home Damaged By Fire

LEETONIA, April 16.—Fire gutted the interior of the home of Mr. and Mrs. John McClun, 486 Columbia st., last night but caused little damage to the exterior of the brick insulated house.

Origin of the blaze, which caused damages to the home and furniture estimated at $1,000, is unknown. It is believed to have started near the living room on the first floor.

No furniture was removed from the home and most of it was destroyed. Mrs. McClun and her daughter, Marjorie, were in the house when the fire was discovered. Both escaped unhurt.

State Highway Garage May Move To Lisbon

LISBON, April 16.—Announcement was made today by Perry Ford, state director of highways, that the Columbiana county state highway garage will be moved back to Lisbon from Leetonia, where it has been situated for 10 years.

Ford and several district representatives recently toured Lisbon to find a site for the new garage and equipment center.

The property being used in Leetonia is understood to have been sold to a Cleveland concern.

Salem May Be Scene Of Large "Puppy Match" On June 3rd

Salem Kennel Club Plans Sanctioned Match Here To Keep Sport Interest Alive

Despite stringent regulations forbidding regular dog shows, Salem people—through the efforts of the Salem Kennel club—may be blessed with a large, entertaining "puppy match," expected to draw between 150 and 200 "novice" canines, at Centennial park on Sunday, June 3.

The match, which seems highly probable, is being arranged here to maintain interest in the breeding and showing of the animals, despite the fact that all larger showings have been cancelled by Office of Defense Transportation rulings.

Through an arrangement with the American Kennel club, officials here hope to be allowed to sponsor their puppy match on the above date.

MANAGERS, SCRIBES PICK ANOTHER ALL ST. LOUIS SERIES

Steve O'Neil, Detroit Head, Is Most Optimistic of Any Team Moguls

By JACK HAND
NEW YORK, April 16.—St. Louis, Chicago, Pittsburgh and possibly New York will battle for the National league pennant, and St. Louis, Detroit and New York for the American loop flag, according to a digest today of pre-season comment by major league managers for the Associated Press.

None ventured, an outright pennant pick and all expected their own clubs to show "improvement, if we can keep what we have." As usual, no manager expected his team to finish in the cellar, occupied last year by Washington and the Phillies.

Seventy-six baseball writers predicted similar races with another All-St. Louis World Series.

Perhaps the most enthusiastic statement by a skipper came from Steve O'Neil of the Detroit Tigers.

"With the best pitching staff in the league and plenty of good reserves for all positions we're much better prepared for the opening than we were a year ago," said O'Neil. "Hitting had been our big question mark but Rudy York, Roger Cramer and Rube Bressler have been meeting the ball squarely."

Due to travel restrictions and curtailed exhibition schedules, managers had not been able to size up the opposition accurately. All they knew about the rookies in most cases, was what they had read.

Red Birds Finish Warmups
COLUMBUS, April 16.—The Columbus Red Birds of the American association and Rochester of the International league will wind up their 11-game exhibition baseball schedule here tonight.

The Red Birds took a six to four lead in the series yesterday by noosing out Rochester, 2 to 1, in a War Bond tilt out to five innings by rain. Managers Charley Root of Columbus and Burleigh Grimes of Rochester pitched the first inning.

Army Resents Pros Drafting Cadet!

Action of Pro Grid Moguls is Definitely Not All Right With West Point Officials

WEST POINT—United States Military Academy authorities resent the Giants of the National Football league drafting George Barney Poole, who will again play end for Army next fall as a sophomore.

Contrary to report, the mammoth Mississippi in its good academic standing for a cadet to resign his commission smacks of receiving an appointment under false pretense. Should a number of service school, stars resign commissions shortly after graduation, it might cause a flareback precipitating a congressional investigation.

YANKS-SENATORS TO OPEN MAJORS WITH GAME TODAY

Inaugural In Memory of Late President Who Had Opened Eight Years

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 16.—Another major league baseball season opens today under sad circumstances as the New York Yankees meet Washington's Senators at Griffith stadium.

For the first time, the inaugural contest is dedicated to the memory of a former president, Franklin D. Roosevelt, who died only four days ago.

The fourth wartime season comes when the end of the war in Germany is at hand with perhaps the first stages of a return to normalcy.

It marks the debut of the Yankees under new owners, Larry MacPhail, Dan Topping and Del Webb. It is the start of the 57th season for Clark Griffith, owner of the Senators.

Truman, as vice president, promised to make the first pitch, if President Roosevelt were unable to do so.

Mr. Roosevelt had found it impossible to participate in the official openings during wartime, although he set a record of making eight first pitches in peace time, from 1933 through 1941, missing only 1939.

In respect to the memory of Mr. Roosevelt, an expected near-capacity crowd of about 30,000 will stand for a minute of silent prayer before the game starts at 3 p. m.

Two veteran righthanders will pitch, Alcyon Donald for the Yankees and Dutch Leonard for the Senators.

The Yankees, who finished third last season, entertain some championship hopes, but the Senators, last in 1944, are not so ambitious. Both teams have almost the same lineups as a year ago.

Sport Chatter

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
NEW YORK, April 16.—Now that the baseball season is ready to start, it might be a mistake to wait until the 24th to name a new commissioner.

After watching a week of the kind of ball they'll be playing this season, the man they pick may decide he doesn't want to be associated with anything like that.

When the Dodgers shipped Howie Schultz and Tom Brown to St. Paul the other day, some observers claimed it had to be a two-man deal because Schultz is the only first sacker tall enough to spear Brown's wild heaves from short.

WOOSTER, April 16.—Baldwin-Wallace college opened the 1945 track season here Saturday with an easy 101 to 26 victory over the College of Wooster. The Yellow Jackets scored grand slams in the 100 and 200-yard dashes and won 13 of 15 events.

Conservation Commission Sends "Foxy" Resolution To Ohio General Assembly

By REED SMITH

COLUMBUS, April 16.—The State Conservation commission has informed members of the general assembly that removal of the group's control over foxes would be "dangerous and unnecessary" but Chairman George Trautman said today the commission did not intend to press the issue.

The commission forwarded a resolution to house and senate conservation committees after recent house approval of legislation to separate fox management from the commission and place the animals on the vermin list.

"Because we believe it will establish an unfortunate precedent, it is our best judgment that the removal of the fox from the jurisdiction of the Conservation commission is dangerous and unnecessary," read the resolution adopted at the commission's March 23 meeting by unanimous vote of the seven members present.

Something foxy appeared to surround the resolution, which only now has come to light. Much of the commission's meeting was "closed" but Trautman said the resolution was not adopted during star chamber proceedings. It was not reported with other business, however.

Trautman said the resolution was intended to state the commission's policy and asserted it might even be withdrawn at the next meeting, April 20.

Inquest To Continue
Rep. Jack Easton (R-Lake) chairman of the house conservation committee, said he had seen the resolution but declined comment. Conservation Commissioner Don Waters was unavailable for comment.

Reports were current, however, that the resolution was unpopular with proponents of the proposed legislation because they felt it might jeopardize chances of senate concurrence.

The bill would remove all restrictions from killing foxes for two years and was designed to aid farmers who reported serious depredations to poultry and other small animals by foxes, whose population is reported on the increase.

The commission described fox problems in Ohio as "one of the most involved and controversial of any species of wild life" and expressed belief a "continuing investigation in several directions will be required before positive answers can be given."

COLUMBUS, April 16.—Ohio will revive another of its golf tournaments this summer. The Ohio Golf association announced the state-senators tournament would be held at
